As the world becomes smaller, your ability to team up with others becomes even more important. We’ll make sure you know how.

At the nationally-ranked NIU College of Business, you participate in group collaborations in every course. This helps you get really comfortable and really good at working in teams and even leading them. Along the way, you’ll develop life-long friendships, discover what excites you most about business, and gain important knowledge and skills that you can actually use.

Be uncommon.
